ASSAILANT OF TRUAX FOUND GUILTY

JURY RETURNS VERDICT IN FORTY MINUTES; JUDGE BUCK TO PRONOUNCE SENTENCE.

After being out only forty minutes, a superior court jury returned a verdict of "Guilty" against Domingo Mendialo, charged with an assault with a deadly weapon on Ben H. Truax, South San Francisco deputy police officer.

Mendialo made an attack on Truax last month in the saloon of A. Venturi when Truax, who had been informed that Mendialo was a slacker, asked to see his registration card. Truax received eight knife wounds before the Mexican was overpowered and placed under arrest.

Mendialo was defended in the superior court by Attorney James T. O'Keefe. District Attorney Franklin K. Swart prosecuted the case.

Judge Buck will pronounce sentence Friday afternoon.

TONG OUTBREAK LOOMS IN S. M. CHINATOWN

SUEY YING GUNMEN SNEAK IN ON HIP SING TONG; TROUBLE MAY OCCUR SOON.

Trouble is brewing in San Mateo's Chinatown. There may be a tong outbreak at any moment, according to Chinamen who are close to the situation. The Hip Sing tong and the Suey Ying tong are the fraternities that are said to be on the verge of opening fire on one another, the Suey Yings demanding blood for what they declare was the unmitigated nerve of a Hip Sing man in taking money he had won at the Suey Ying gaming tables.

Three gunmen are said to have been brought into San Mateo by the Suey Yings and are believed to be housed there. The police are endeavoring to locate their hiding place in order to circumvent any outbreak of firing.

Mock Hung, a San Francisco Chinaman, who was arrested about a week ago by Chief of Police Thomas F. Burke, appears to be the central figure around whom the sinister Orientals are weaving their looms of trouble. He arrived in San Mateo with a friend and they proceeded to the Suey Ying headquarters, where, it is said, a few games were indulged in. Mock Hung and his friend coming out on the long end. The Suey Yings refused to pay, the Hip Sings assert. Then Mock Hung swept all the money in sight into his pocket and in the midst of the hubbub made his getaway, only to be caught later. His friend made good his escape.

Although the Hip Sing man, Mock Hung, is in jail on a charge of burglary, the Suey Yings are not satisfied. As one Chinaman put it:

LAST QUESTIONNAIRES ARE PLACED IN MAIL

SAN MATEO COUNTY EXEMPTION BOARD PREPARES TO WIND UP ITS WORK.

What is believed to be the last batch of questionnaires that will be issued by the San Mateo County Exemption Board have been mailed. These questionnaires were issued to all men between 18 and 36, inclusive, who had not previously received them. No more physical examinations will be held and no more questionnaires will be mailed to men from 37 to 45, but the instructions from the War Department were to complete the classification of the 18 to 36 registrants, so it was necessary to send questionnaires to all men of those ages who had not already received them. The local board requests that these questionnaires be filled out and returned immediately.

WAR WORKERS RAISE FULL QUOTA

AMOUNT ASKED FOR AVERAGED THREE DOLLARS FOR EVERY MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD HERE.

With the returns from the Schaw-Batcher Company Shipyards and the Pacific Coast Steel Mill still incomplete, every indication is that South San Francisco will exceed its quota of $12,000 in the United War Fund campaign.

Workers at the shipyards and steel mill report that $2000 will be contributed by the employees of each of these plants.

Final compilation of the sums secured by the women workers under direction of Mrs. E. C. Peck show in excess of $400 raised by them for the fund.

A number of employees in the various factories voluntarily agreed to donate a full day's pay to the cause and the Growers' Rice Milling Company employees went 100 per cent in their contributions, which averaged close to five dollars per man.

F. A. Cunningham (chairman) reports that the firm of Vincenzini Bros., retail butchers, contributed $30, which is ten dollars for each member of the firm.

The appeal of the committee met instant and generous response generally throughout the community, which has again placed South San Francisco in the front rank of contributors to war charities and supporters of the work of the government.

Joseph B. Gordon, chairman of the United War drive in San Mateo county, was able to announce that the entire county had gone over the top in the big drive and that the quota had been well exceeded in all the different districts. The county's quota was $42,500, and it is believed that the total subscriptions when all the reports are in will reach $50,000. San Mateo county stood sixteenth in the list of counties out of a total of fifty-nine.

COUNTY OFFICIALS OF STATE WILL MEET

BIG CONVENTION PLANNED TO BE HELD IN SACRAMENTO NEXT MONTH.

Assessors, auditors, tax collectors and treasurers from practically every county of California will convene in Sacramento for three days, beginning December 19, and these officials in Sacramento county have begun arrangements for the big convention. The appraisers and attorneys of the State Controller's office will also be in session there on those days.

The conventions will open in the Senate chamber with an address by Governor William D. Stephens, after which various meeting places in the capital will be used for the different conventions. A union convention will be held Saturday.

Ed Kay, assessor of Sacramento county, is chairman of the committee on arrangements and is appointing sub-committees to arrange convention details and entertainment.

State Controller John S. Chambers will be toastmaster at the banquet.

The idle brain is the self-starter of the busy tongue.

UNCLE SAM SENDS APOLOGY TO PACKERS

WILSON & CO. DEMAND FULL INVESTIGATION AND ARE FREED OF CHARGES.

That there is nobody in this nation too big to apologize when they find themselves to be in the wrong, is the lesson to be derived from Uncle Sam himself, in the instance of his voluntary amende honorable to Wilson & Co., Chicago packers.

A few months ago there was a good deal of a sensation when the news columns of papers all over the country carried a story that an attempt was being made to unload bad meat on the army. Visions of "embalmed beef" and other legacies of former war profiteering floated before the vision of the American public. In the present instance, Wilson & Co. were the accused, and a government bureau was made responsible for the accusation.

But quite happily our domestic democracy has become progressive, and no matter what may be opinions regarding it with reference to the world's troubles, it has got beyond the point, in industrial and economic affairs, where the accused is pronounced "fit to be hung" whenever the Government gets suspicious and demands a showdown.

Thomas E. Wilson has been featured as one of the aggressive young captains of industry, and in view of the fact that he has flung his banners into the country's trade winds, labeled all over with the words, "The Wilson Label protects your table," the accusing finger, pointed by Uncle Sam, coupled with the charges about "bad meat," very naturally caused a storm to gather, and its dark clouds threatened for a time to bedim the beacon lights that mark the whereabouts of the Wilson packing establishment.

The company immediately demanded a complete investigation of the charges, and the Government replied: "All right, Mr. Packers, we'll give you a square deal"—and it was also added rather significantly: "We'll give you the limit, too, if we fasten this charge on you!" "Go to it, please, as fast as you can—you can't proceed too fast for us," returned the gentleman that we hear spoken of in Washington as Tom Wilson.

So it followed that the Federal Trade Commission went to the bottom of its own accusal, and now it is given out that the commission finds that the Chicago concern is freed of the bad meat charges.

Uncle Sam, like the true gentleman we know him to be, has frankly told the Wilson Company: "Sorry, boys, I misjudged you—but you know that I have a lot of people to watch nowadays, and last spring I gave you the once-over, and thought you were trying to slip something across on me; so I spoke to you pretty sharply; but you came right back and demanded a square deal—and everybody is just getting that same treatment from me. Your case is clear, now I am busy with other matters, so get out, some emperors and kings are waiting in the anteroom to apologize. By the way, though, keep right along pushing things for your Uncle Sam out there at Chicago." Surely Uncle Sam is a fine, square old gentleman!

COMMITTEE APPOINTED BY THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO CONFER WITH COUNTY AND CITY OFFICIALS.

The regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held on Tuesday evening.

W. H. Coffinberry reported that data for filing with the Western Union Telegraph Company, showing the necessity for the establishment of a telegraph office here, was practically completed and the matter will be pushed to a conclusion.

W. H. Coffinberry, City Engineer George A. Kneese and E. C. Peck were appointed a committee of three on sidewalks and roads. The committee will confer with Supervisor Hickey in an effort to secure joint action of the city and county on paving the strip of road at the extension of Grand avenue so as to connect with the county highway. The extension of Swift avenue to the Fuller plant will be advocated, as will also the fixing of a strip of sidewalk on lower Grand avenue, which E. C. Peck called a "toboggan slide."

Interesting communications relative to the switching case were read by Secretary Walker.

The advisability of the Chamber endorsing the annexation of South San Francisco to the city of San Francisco, under the borough plan of government, will come up at the next meeting, which will be held the second Tuesday in December.

LOUIS BLAS SOUGHT ON DESERTION CHARGE

WIFE OF SHIPYARD EMPLOYEE CLAIMS HE DESERTED HER FOR AN AFFINITY.

Louis Blas, an employee of the Schaw-Batcher shipyard, is being sought by the police on a charge of abandoning his wife and ten children at Redwood City.

The warrant was issued by Judge Seely on the complaint of Mrs. Blas, who claims that her husband ran away from home on November 10 with another woman. She states it to be her belief that Blas and his affinity are living on a ranch at Aptos, in Santa Cruz county. When Blas left home, the wife avers, he took with him part of the household furnishings.

Blas was a restaurant keeper in Redwood City previous to taking employment at the shipyard here.

E. G. EKSTROM'S WIFE REPORTED DYING

News was received here Friday that the wife of E. G. Ekstrom is dangerously ill in a Los Angeles hospital, it being the opinion of physicians that death was a matter of but a few hours.

Mrs. Ekstrom was operated on Thursday and did not rally. Ekstrom was manager of the Schaw-Batcher shipyards here until quite recently, and since severing his connection with the company has continued to make his home at the Industrial Club, pending the conclusion of several business matters which demanded his attention.

Economy in Wheat Very Necessary

Food Saving Program Remains Unchanged Except That Wheat Flour May Be Used Without Substitutes.

Issued by U. S. Food Administration for California

San Francisco, Nov. 21.—Elimination of the substitute regulations has not relieved the imperative necessity for continued economy in the use of wheat flour in the homes of the nation, and all public eating places will be held strictly to the order which forbids the service of more than two ounces of wheat bread per person at each meal.

This was announced today by the California Food Administration on advice from Washington. Acting Federal Food Commissioner Preston McKinney explained that the former general wheat saving program remains in effect, with this change: Instead of eating bread mixed with substitutes it may now be used when made from pure wheat flour, but economy should be exercised in the consumption of all breadstuffs, as well as in other foods.

The 80-20 substitute rule was abandoned primarily to relieve a world-wide shortage in coarse grain feeds for domestic animals. Most of the substitute flours were made from those grains and consequently a great scarcity for stock feeding developed. In view of the large domestic wheat crop and the fact that additional stores of wheat were made available by the signing of the armistice, the Food Administration rescinded the substitute program to relieve the pressure on coarse grains urgently needed for American and European dairy and swine herds, which have been greatly depleted by the war.

Food officials explained that the abandonment of the substitute rule has been widely but erroneously misinterpreted as meaning that further conservation of wheat products, particularly flour, had become unnecessary. In order to fulfill America's pledge to export approximately 20,000,000 tons of food prior to June 30th, next, to prevent millions of liberated peoples from becoming famine victims, the nation must restrict its wheat consumption as rigidly as prevailed under the war program of food saving.

FILMY LINGERIE IS COURT EXHIBIT

DENTICULATED PARISIAN GARMENTS SHOWN IN TRIAL OF COMELY KATHLEEN WEST.

The courtroom of Justice of the Peace Porter E. Lamb in Burlingame took on the appearance of a fashionable Parisian lingerie shop Tuesday, just before an order was entered holding comely Kathleen West for trial upon the charge of having purloined from Mrs. Ward Barron, Burlingame society matron, several anonymous pieces of Parisian lingerie, six pairs plain and parti-colored silk hosiery, one twenty-dollar nightie, one topaz and rose diamond ring, one pearl-beaded bag valued at $150, six pairs silk gloves and one fur coat, the last item being the property of Mrs. Barron's daughter.

All these delicate, gossiping things were held up before the blinking magistrate by District Attorney Franklin K. Swart and Town Attorney Arthur H. Redington of Hillsborough, who appeared as special prosecutor.

Mrs. Barron identified each and all as her own property, and then her mother, Mrs. J. Downey Harvey, and Mrs. Joseph D. Redding testified that they had seen this or that thing here or there in possession of Mrs. Barron. Similar testimony was given by Mrs. Azel Ayers, and Miss Grace Robinson, San Francisco saleswoman, testified that she had sold some of the more intimate articles of wear to Mrs. Barron.

The pearl-beaded bag, Mrs. Barron testified, was a gift to her from United States Senator James D. Phelan.

The defendant young woman, who recently was employed as a maid by Mrs. Barron, was arrested at Los Banos with the disputed property in her possession. She declares that it belongs to her. But Justice Lamb found that there was "reasonable cause," so he decided that a jury should see all that he had seen and then pass judgment upon the guilt or innocence of Miss West. Accordingly, he ordered Miss West held for trial in Superior Judge George H. Buck's court at Redwood City.

"World Relief Week" December 1-7

Intensive Food Saving Drive Planned to Create Surplus for Export to Famine Victims.

Issued by U. S. Food Administration for California

With the liberated peoples of Europe facing famine, and millions of women and children looking to America as their salvation from death by hunger and privation, the United States Government, through the Food Administration, has planned to launch a nation-wide intensive food saving drive beginning December 1st. This drive will begin simultaneously in every state and last seven days. During this period the national conscience will be aroused to the dire necessities of the famine victims abroad, whose needs until their next harvest can be filled only by rigid saving of foods in America's kitchens.

The seven days' campaign will be known as "World Relief Week" and will be ushered in by the reading of a special message from Federal Food Administrator Herbert Hoover in churches of all denominations throughout the country. California's share in the great drive was arranged at a meeting November 22nd in San Francisco, when all county food administrators, women directors and food conservation speakers met under the auspices of the California Food Administration.

The Hoover message will also be read during the week in all fraternal and other organizations, followed by meetings in each county and city under the direction of food administration officials. On Wednesday, December 4th, special food saving exercises will be held in women's clubs throughout the state, followed on Friday by similar demonstrations in the public schools.

Under the direction of the speakers' bureau of the Food Administration, a score or more public speakers will tour the state, making addresses in hundreds of cities, towns and villages and giving in detail the reasons why America must continue to export foods to the war-stricken victims of German militarism, as a measure to prevent anarchy and riots, to set up and maintain internal peace and amity and to permit the great work of economic and political reconstruction to be pursued along broad humanitarian lines.

Citizens of all California communities are urgently requested to aid in making "World Relief Week" another triumph for the idealism which American democracy stands for by attending the meetings and heeding the message for food conservation.

He sells booklets detailing events of his life and postcard views of himself taken in various Ohio cities. REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT EQUAL OPPORTUNITY FOR CAPITAL AND LABOR

The greatest camouffeur in the world of human affairs to-day is that many-sided personality known as "Opportunity."

He comes and goes, constantly crossing everybody's path, but is mighty hard to recognize even by the man who is constantly on watch. The best of us often have eyes to see but don't see, and the great majority even of the keenest of men have to get their first knowledge of the presence of Opportunity from the man on watch.

Most of us pay but little attention to the promoter or the speculator, but all of us watch the editorials of the big journals of information, because we know that these journals command a broad view of current events, that they have nothing to sell and their calculations and deductions are usually honest and unprejudiced.

Real Estate has ever been, for the laborer and capitalist alike, a great field of Opportunity. The greatest of fortunes have been made in this, the most stable of all business fields. The right place and the right time to invest means a correct recognition of the presence of Opportunity.

Is to-day the opportune time to invest in real estate? This is a live question and has been the subject of many editorials in all our leading newspapers and journals, the answer being invariably "Yes." One of the best editorials appeared recently in the San Francisco Chronicle, and read as follows:

CITY REAL ESTATE.

There Could Not Be a Better Time to Invest in Such Property.

There is very little doing in city real estate, and the reason is obvious. Some millions of men who would normally be making use of improvements on it are in France or on their way there, and other millions are being taken from their homes and concentrated about industrial plants, where they are struggling for shelter.

While most of those plants are intended to be permanent, no one can foresee the extent of their permanent operations, and, consequently, private capital will not build houses to the extent necessary to house all now employed there. Under normal conditions, there is certain to be a readjustment. The well-located cities will recommence their normal growth and building sites for all purposes will again be in demand.

For that reason, those who have money will not miss it if they invest in real estate property well located and whose owners desire to sell at current values. One may say that investors should invest in Liberty Bonds, but the land is now owned by some one who could himself invest if he could sell. Change of ownership of land cannot affect the amount available to buy Liberty Bonds.

When the reason for stagnation in a market is known, and it is also known that in due time the cause will disappear, plans and estimates can be made with as much certainty as at any other time, and all human experience shows that those who profit by the use of their judgment are those who buy when property is cheap. And they perform a useful social service by relieving those who for one reason or another prefer to sell for what they can get now rather than to wait for better prices, however well assured that they will get them some time.

There is much food for thought in this editorial. The shrewdest calculator and the commonest thinker face a simple set of facts and figures. Wages have practically doubled, the cost of manufactured goods and materials requiring labor has also doubled and the cost of food and living has also doubled. The purchasing power of a dollar for all ordinary purposes therefore is about fifty cents. It is plain to be seen that a man, getting twice the wages he received in normal times, if he could buy good at old prices would actually be doubling his investment. It is man open fact that the most stable of all commodities, "Real Estate," even in the most favored centers, has not been influenced by those abnormal conditions. It can be bought to-day at old prices. If those prices were right before, it means that you are now buying at half price. The time is opportune beyond question and if the place for investment was right before these abnormal conditions developed, then the time and place is right and Opportunity is here and now.

South San Francisco, a commanding factor in the most promising center of commercial and industrial activity on earth, needs no argument in support of its superior merit as a place for real estate investment. The investor is everywhere in evidence in South San Francisco, in gigantic factories of a permanent kind, in the highest type of public improvements, in power, harbor and transportation facilities, in superior schools and churches, in banks, hotels, hospitals and clubs, and last but not least, in the splendid type of homes unsurpassed in any community.

Right Here in the Yard

Cheer up. Everybody's good at something.

The Italian mind is creative. So is the French. Both France and Italy have done more for creative art than any other nation. Ancient Greece was artistic, but gave it up when she gave up her individuality.

The creative mind is always imaginative. Imagination invents. An Italian's imagination made wireless telegraphy possible, and contradiction has not yet silenced the French claim that Daimler and Farman were the parents of the automobile and the aeroplane.

The German is less creative, but he is extremely painstaking and diligent. He has that genius for classification that toilsomely elaborates another man's discovery and makes it serviceable.

And what of the Yanks? A great European chemist has been kind enough to say that we are marveled at leaping gaps.

His compliment carries with it a touch of censure. We have learned in a year and a half how much we can do when we must. The fiction that Germany could do certain things better than any other nation is now exploded. That Germany did so is indisputable, but that was because America didn't try. We must lay the blame on our lack of patience; we can't plead lack of aptitude.

This is not a vainglorious fanfare. Of all that enormous list of products for which we depended absolutely on Germany there is none that we are not now providing here at home—or its substitute. We realized, when we had to, that Germany's supremacy in chemistry was due to our disinclination to challenge it. During the last two years it became necessary to do what Germany had been doing in the dye industry—and accordingly it was done. So also with drugs; and now, after a period of months, America's chemical industry stands in the position which Germany's held entrenched against the world. Potash, salvarsan, the photographic agents, all the coal tar products for which we looked to Germany as habitually as we look to China and Ceylon for tea, are now in Uncle Sam's backyard between the woodshed and the barn.

The fireproof and acid-proof glass of Jena, without which many a chemical experiment is impossible, is as necessary to-day as formerly—but we don't send to Jena for it. Nor to Thuringia for the watch crystals which we thought we could get nowhere else.

Fetish cults are not confined entirely to the South Sea Islands and the Congo. It is well that the most mischievous of them all has now been effectually dissipated.

What we don't expect to have, we never miss—very much. But when one expects to rule the world and has to sink off in twelve automobiles belonging to some one else, we'll say that that sounds like shaving off the heaven-pointed whiskers. Possibly he has gone to conquer another world, or try to—but I have an inkling that the devil has sent a triple-bladed squire to Hollywood and offered him the secretary of state'ship of his popular empire.

So let us sharpen up our tools, for some of us might get a chance in the other land to whack the killer of babes and women at last.

As the later detailed reports come in it appears that the American army held considerable of a picnic in the Argonne forest.

Our boys in France probably feel as the audience does when the curtain goes down. They want to put on their wraps and start for home.

Holland evidently does not care to have German gentlemen of high degree elect to reside within it.

The ex-Kaiser in Holland is said to be wearing civilian dress. Another case of "all dressed up and no place to go."

When our troops come marching home, among the wild acclamations with which we greet them should be the thunderous question, "Parlez-vous Français?"

We trust that the last "hymn of hate" has been sung, and that the enduring popular song of the world will hereafter be, "Peace on earth, good-will to men."

It never occurred to the Germans that the "Watch on the Rhine" would some day be an American watch.

The American boys who hoped to meet the Kaiser in Berlin must be sadly disappointed that he did not remain there for an introduction to them. Hearsay knowledge of them was probably all that he cared for.

The voices of Germany and Austria crying "Bread, Bread," must be heeded and answered. Would it not be a good plan, however, to answer them with war bread? We can spare it.

The daily papers look strange without the war maps. It was "the only war we had," and it is natural that we should miss it a little.

When the war began the Kaiser was the Man of the Hour. But now new republics in Germany seem to be the Tendency of the Hour.

The United States appears to be receiving Mr. McAdoo's proposal for the reduction of the tax bill with much cheerfulness and equanimity.

A joyous Thanksgiving, this of 1918, yet deeply tinged with the pathos and glory of the white crosses which our nation claims upon the fields and hillside of France.

MICKY, PRINTER'S DEVIL

HE IS A PHILOSOPHER WHO KNOWS THE PUBLISHING AND PRINTING BUSINESS.

MICKIE SAYS

ONE GUY THAT RUNS NECK AND NECK WITH THE KAISER FOR POPULARITY AROUND THIS OFFICE IS THE COWARDLY WAMPUS WHO LETS HIS PAPER GET A YEAR BEHIND AND THEN REFUSES IT AT THE POST-OFFICE 'T AVOID PAYIN' WHAT HE OWES US

MICKIE, YOU SAID SOMETHING!

Have you bought your War Savings Stamps this week?

In a shiny suit of blue, with the badge of the Grand Army on his breast, he walked into the bank. Presenting himself at the cashier's window he threw five Liberty bond coupons on the counter. He said: "I am sorry, but these are overdue, and I'd like to pay the interest." It took the receiving teller fifteen minutes to convince him he was entitled to a dividend instead of paying out money to the Government. He finally pocketed what was coming to him and left, shaking his grizzled head with an expression of regret that he couldn't add to his bit, instead of taking money away from Uncle Sam. He is probably the first and last real patriot. Hats off.

Of course when the armistice was signed President Wilson could not join the wild crowds in the street. But if on receiving the news he had relaxed his dignity by a little private song and dance of his own, who could blame him.

Reconstruction and readjustment appear to be the order of the day. What special reconstruction do you need?

What we don't know, we are certain some time to find out; but it is better to attain the height where we DO know than to forever be steady on the ladder on which we expect to climb. Think so?

The white angel of peace has come to bless the world.

What a grief it must be to the Kaiser to realize that his beloved Fatherland can get on without him and is perfectly reconciled to attempting it.

Being the Kaiser and All-Highest may be very interesting and delightful, but who would want to be an ex-All-Highest?

This will be one of the greatest Thanksgivings since the days of the Pilgrim Fathers. One hardly knows how to specify the causes for thankfulness. However, we might mention Peace by Victory, President Wilson, Marshal Foch, General Pershing, the French 75s, the Yanks, the Gobs, the 1918 wheat crop, sugar substitutes, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie. Add others to suit your individual taste.

Perhaps swords will soon be beaten into plowshares. During the peace celebration we certainly saw wash boilers and garbage cans beaten into producers of infernal sounds.

For months the German army will have nightmare dreams of running at its topmost speed while dreadful Americans on motor trucks pursue it.

Don't let us be tempted into any extravagance by the thought that the war is over. Our boys must still be supported abroad; they must gradually be brought back; they must be returned to civilian life by degrees. There will be another Liberty Loan. We must be ready for it.

The War Lords in their shining armor have had their brief and bloody day. It is followed by days of the Lord of Peace.

After the "tumult and the shouting dies," a sense of deep thankfulness and gratitude will be with us and remain with us for all the days of our lives.

PRaises COUNTRYPRESS

The following article praising the loyalty of the country press of America was given prominence in the current issue of Successful Farming, published by E. T. Meredith, a dollar-a-year man in Washington, and who fully realizes the problems of the country press:

"Among the many classes of citizens who have shown distinct patriotism and bravery in this time of crisis, the publishers of a large number of small-town newspapers should not be overlooked. In many cases they have thrown into the balance their very means of livelihood and have refused to be bluffed by disloyal subscribers or advertisers. Even in communities where the largest number of German sympathizers are found and consequently the local publisher is largely dependent upon them for the existence of his paper, he has risked the destruction of his business through loss of this support and has done all in his power to further the cause of true patriotism and eradicate disloyalty.

"The patriotic support given by the local newspapers to every war project has been one of the most important factors in their success. The liberal space given to every worthy cause costs the publisher real money, and in giving his space he is giving of his stock in trade in just the same way that a farmer might contribute a hog or ten bushels of corn to the Red Cross or other funds."

WHAT EDITORS KNOW

A good many editors are said not to know much. The trouble is that they know a lot of stuff that they do not tell. They know who drinks the beer and they know the ladies who deviate from the straight path of rectitude and the boys who smoke in the alleys and dark places and the girls who are out auto riding until the roosters crow for daylight. They know the fellows that are good to pay and they know the fellow who can't get trusted for a tobacco sack full of salt. They could guess at once why some fellows are as they are and they can guess pretty closely what they do to make themselves so. Even in a town like this they know enough to make one of the red-hottest, rip snorting, high-gear, chain lightning editions you ever read.—Daly City Record-Tattler.

FOOD CONSERVATION WEEK IS PROGRAM

SUNDAY HAS BEEN DEDICATED BY CHURCHES TO WORLD RELIEF; CLERGY WILL READ APPEAL.

Sunday, December 1, is designated by the United States Food Administration as Conservation Sunday for "World Relief." Mr. Hoover's appeal to the American people will be read by the clergy in all churches throughout the United States. The appeal for food conservation is no longer addressed to the war conscience of our people. The war is over. Victory rests upon our banners. The appeal is now addressed to the world conscience. Now that war has ceased, America must do her part to stabilize government in the stricken countries of Europe. No government can stand if the people starve. No one who has studied the marvelous work of the Food Administration will fail in loyal obedience to its expressed wish that we continue conservation of food and thus enable our government to carry out its promise to the sorely tried people of France and Belgium, as well as their valiant allies.

Arrangements for a Food Conservation week following Sunday, December 1, are being made. The meeting will be held under the direction of our local food administrator, Donald W. Williams. Don't fail to attend church Sunday, December 1, and assist the Food Administration in spreading the message of conservation.

Mr. Lynn, and his wife.

There will be no admission charge to the affair.

COPPETTES ARE THE LATEST; SOCIETY MAIDS GIVEN STARS

We have had farmereettes and yeomanettes, but coppettes are the latest.

Saturday morning ten lovely society maids were duly sworn in as policewomen of San Francisco. Yes, they lined up before Chief White and took the oath, swearing to obey the rules and regulations of the police force. Fancy the emotions of their greatgrandmothers—soft, vine-clinging types of womanhood in the days of crinoline, fans and fainting spells—if they could have gazed upon the trim young women clad in the trim uniform of the Red Cross ambulance driver, each receiving the coveted star of authority! Time has wrought miracles in the life of woman.

The ten young coppettes signalize one of the changes of this era. They are of the world and giving to the world a full measure of service. Girlhood has lost none of its charms. She has increased her capacity for service, and therefore has become more attractive, more to be admired, and far more useful to the world.

The special officer's star which they now wear gives them the right of way of the streets of San Francisco without interference from traffic officers or other guardians of the law in uniform. Recent work of the Red Cross has necessitated the change, and the coppettes are duly pleased with the result.—San Mateo News.

COMMISSIONS COMBAT INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC

COUNTY ORGANIZATIONS RENDER VALUABLE AID IN STAMPING OUT DISEASE.

In the recent intensive campaign waged against the influenza epidemic in San Mateo county, the Social Service Commission of the county and the Public Health Service of the commission played a most important and active part.

The seriousness of the epidemic was recognized by the commission through the activities of the Public Health Service, also the imperative need of hospital care for many patients. This need was brought to the attention of the local chapter of the Red Cross and the facilities of the commission and the Public Health Service were placed unreservedly at its disposal, with the result that an emergency hospital was opened in Hillsborough.

The chairman of the Social Service Commission, Mrs. Harry S. Dana, and the chairman of the Public Health Service, Mrs. Clarence R. Walter, offered to the local chapter of the Red Cross the services of all their paid workers for three weeks, in co-operation with the local chapters of the Red Cross, the County Council of Defense and the National League for Women's Service. The commission and public health service devoted all their time and attention to combating the epidemic. They not only served as administrative officers, but gave regularly each day a stated number of hours to either hospital duty, home visiting or definite work in either the hospital kitchen or in the kitchens at the distributing centers.

The county government may be justly proud of the valuable work which this, its youngest department, has rendered to the community in the past emergency.

MISS MARTHA DOAK BRIDE OF WILLIAM LAUGENOUR

Miss Martha Doak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Doak, became the bride of William R. Laugenour at a quiet ceremony performed at Grace Cathedral, San Francisco.

The bride received her education at the San Mateo union high school, Castilleja School in Palo Alto, Miss Hamlin's in San Francisco and Mount Vernon Academy in Washington, D. C. She has a host of friends in San Mateo and Burlingame.

Laugenour is a former Stanford man and a son of a wealthy rancher of Woodland. He is engaged in the commission business in San Francisco. The young couple are now domiciled at the Ross Early Apartments on Post street.

The young bride is a niece of Dr. T. C. Doak of this city, where her parents have many friends.

GRACE MISSION CHURCH TO GIVE CONCERT AND DANCE

Members of Grace Mission Episcopal Church announce a concert, to be followed by a dance, on Thursday evening, December 5.

The affair will be held in Guild Hall at the rear of the church, and the proceeds of the concert will go toward swelling the repair fund. Since the return of the Rev. Mr. Wallace the church building has been partly restored by paint, and further improvements of the edifice, which is one of the city's landmarks, are planned by the committee in charge. A charge of 50 cents for tickets will be made, and it is to be expected that the affair will be a financial success because of the worth of the cause.

Good talent will be provided for the vocal and musical numbers and an enjoyable evening of dancing will follow.

Midwinter Hats More Colorful

For some reason the millinery of midwinter is more colorful and somewhat more elaborate than that which ushered in the fall season, although the simply trimmed hat cannot be outclassed. But variety is the spice of millinery as well as of life, and some of the latest arrivals in the assemblages of midwinter hats are far from simple.

The hat at the center of the picture is an instance of this new departure. In the face of a vogue for sedate colors and meager trimmings, its designer has chosen to be audacious and has vindicated her choice by making a beautiful hat. It is a picturesque model with a wide brim, faced with rose-colored crepe and edged with a double frill of velvet in that cool brown called "elephant." The brim is wider at the left side than elsewhere and has as many graceful turns and curves as the edge of a flower petal. A whole company of small curling ostrich heads—which is the millinery name for little plumes—finds a resting place on it and they are of the same shade of brown. The crown is rather high and lifts at the left with a band of tucked belting ribbon about it in rose color.

Just to show that quite a lot of trimming can be used successfully, rather large brown beads are set at wide intervals about the upper edge of the ribbon, and even the lovely little ostrich plumes are not left alone in their glory—brown Japanese agrettes spring up among them.

theater parties—weddings and all sorts of bright assemblies. It is of taupe velvet faced with silk in three colors, pale rose, blue and lavender, in bands inside a border of taupe on the underbrim. It is one of the few very wide-brimmed hats that have flourished in the midst of much more numerous small ones.

At the left a brown beaver hat with a crushed collar of velvet about the crown has only a fancy pompon of uncured ostrich for ornament. There is a furor for beaver hats and therefore it is sure of as much consideration as its more trimmed rivals.

Wash Dresses for Children.

Among the dresses for the older tots are colored chambrays and crepes, most of them made with yoke or guimpe of white organdie or nainsook, the edges finished with piping or chain stitching in black or contrasting color. Some of the little dresses have skirts buttoned to high waists with large pearl buttons, nearly all featuring cunning little pockets. Suspender effects are also seen in these dresses, the simulated suspenders apparently held in position by large buttons.

CATHOLIC PRIEST RAPS OFFICIALS OF BURLINGAME

Declaring that the action of Mayor William H. Pearson of Burlingame in seeking to have the San Mateo board of health enact "uniform orders" designed to prevent the spread of influenza, was "very small and imperious," and that the Burlingame board of health assumed "extreme and unreasonable powers" upon itself in ordering that open-air meetings should be abolished during the epidemic, Rev. Father James A. Grant of Burlingame on Sunday "roasted" Mayor Pearson and the board of health before an unusually large congregation.

Supplies that had been purchased by Werder during the day for the county farm and hospital were missing from the machine when it was recovered.

EMBLEMS OF DEATH FOR TOYS

New York, Oct. 23.—Several thousand cases of German-made toys arrived here to-day.—Associated Press.

Toys! For whom? For the innocents carried down when the Lusitania sank? For those tear-eyed Belgian children who stretch forth little arms from which the hands were struck off by the swords of German officers? For those French boys and girls with pitiful sightless eyes? For those whose little bodies rest in the churchyards of Italy, that died in pain from poisoned Hun candy? For those other children slowly starved in Poland or massacred in Armenia?

Toys? Toys made by Huns to whom innocence and childhood are but toys to be played with and then crushed and broken? Toys whose very contact contaminates and leaves upon the touch of babyhood invisible clots of blood? As well bring a deadly serpent into the home to spew its venom on the cradle. Why shall we be foul and taint the purity of American childhood with a reminder of the fiendish treatment the Huns have gloried in ever since that fateful August of 1914? Can one even look upon a Noah's Ark "Made in Germany" and put from his mind those hundreds of helpless innocents whose silken locks are twined with seaweed? Can one hold a German doll in her arms and forget the thousands dead from famine who once made glad a mother's arms? Can a boy find delight in the contortions of a mechanical Hun clown and forget those brave young men who writhed in agony when crucified on castle walls by these same Huns? Can a ball colored with the red of Huns fail to suggest the flame from bursting grenades hurled by arms uplifted in the attitude of "kamerad?"

Let those who would invite fearsome ghosts into the home to hover round the Christmas tree buy German toys. If one would hang the boughs with evil omens, and bid the wall of agonized spirits float through the branches and fan the flickering flame of candles, let him buy German toys. Let those who can make merry with the product of those very hands which even at this moment are eagerly filling shells with poison gases and deadly flames and hurling them against our own flesh and blood.

And what of the merchant who for sordid gain would barter these souvenirs of a loathsome nation and insult the loyalty of lisping lips? What could more delight the cunning Hun, what more quickly bring the sneering smile to cruel faces, or gladden heartless hearts, or encourage him to hope that even now we tolerate his brutality and welcome what he wants to sell? If now, when as a nation we are in universal condemnation of Hunism, yet do we hold out our hands to accept his works, what will he think and with what measure shall he estimate the sincerity of our expressions of repugnance and horror at what he has done since the sun rose this morning? What mitigation can we claim in the thought that America was not yet overseas when these trinkets were fashioned? Even while the gaudy paint was yet fresh upon these trinkets were Belgian girls being dragged into slavery worse than death.

We do not lack for toys; toys by trainloads made in American factories, by hands which are clean; toys also by carloads made by our ally in Japan, where childhood is sacred, and love, not hate, is taught at mothers' breasts. Even were there none, far better our boys and girls should go without than find pleasure in the handiwork of a nation which made a public holiday to celebrate the loss of the Lusitania, and which in these latter days is steeped in the "glory" of monstrosities. Could our little men who sacrifice many a childish pleasure to buy war stamps and contribute pennies to the Red Cross, and our little mothers who knit so patiently with hands that can barely hold the needles, would one of these knowingly find any pleasure in any toy "Made in Germany?"—H. H. Windsor, editor Popular Mechanics Magazine.

RELICS TELL OF BIG GOLD BOOM

Buildings in Tombstone, Ariz.;

Glory.

WILD TIMES THERE

Bird-Cage Opera House, Can-Can Restaurant and Red-Light Saloon, About All That Remains of Gold Camp.

Tucson, Ariz.—The Bird-Cage opera house, the Can-Can restaurant, the Red Light saloon and the Tucson stage office remain as relics of the one-time glory of Tombstone, Ariz., as a mining camp. These old buildings were once the scenes of the pioneer Arizona mining camp, but are now occupied by bats and are slowly falling into decay.

The old opera house was the most famous theater in the southwest during the early frontier days. It is a rambling two-story structure with the glass broken by the elements. A long bar occupies one end of the building while the piano player's platform faces it at the opposite end. It was on this platform that the famous sign hung, which read: "Do not shoot the piano player. He is doing the best he can." The most famous variety performers from San Francisco appeared on the stage and lithographs announcing their coming still hang on the walls. Many shooting affairs took place in the Bird Cage and it has been the scene of a number of western stories of frontier life.

Monument Erected for Settler.

At the Can-Can restaurant steaks once sold for $5 each and men waited in line to be served when the Tombstone gold boom was at its height. The Red Light saloon was a gambling house and the discarded roulette and faro layouts may be seen stacked in the rear of the building with its broken bar and mahogany fixtures. The stage office is an adobe building with a corral flanking it, and it was here that the stage from Tucson pulled in each day. Another relic of old Tombstone is the monument erected to Ed Schefflin, the founder of the town and the man who gave it its name. The monument is built of boulders from Schefflin's first mine.

A cowboy from the Panhandle district of Texas told Schefflin that he would not find gold but a tombstone in quest of a mine in the Huachuca mountains. Schefflin found gold and named the town Tombstone, remembering his friend's prediction.

Big Spree Follows and Two Immortals Find Themselves Before Bar of Justice.

Middletown, O.—When a hammer meets cold iron everyone can guess what is going to happen.

A couple of fellows went for an auto ride here. During the progress of this ride the men accumulated an assortment of wet goods.

After a perilous career they were arrested on the Dixie highway and were taken before a justice of the peace, charged with driving an auto while intoxicated.

The two men were Wiley Coldiron and Bert Hammer.
